Canberra. Australia's Capital.

Canberra is the Capital of Australia, one of the few cities in the World not to have a professional football team. And yet we have produced players of the quality of Carl Valeri (Socceroos and Grosseto Serie B), Ned Zelic (UEFA Cup Winner Borussia Dormund, and former Socceroo), and perhaps our greatest export, Joe Simunic (Hertha Berlin and Croatian International). Joe has played in three World Cups and two European Championships. All were born in Canberra.

The Australian Institute of Sport is based in Canberra. Mark Viduka (Socceroos and Newcastle United), Vince Grella (Socceroos and Torino), Lucas Neill (Socceroos and West Ham United), Brett Emerton (Blackburn Rovers) and Jason Culina (PSV Eindhoven) are just some of the many players who spent their apprenticeship in Canberra at the AIS.

The AIS continue to produce players to play in the top leagues in Italy, England, Croatia, Germany, Turkey, Greece, Holland and beyond.

Local football support

The ACT has a strong football community, from junior players through to masters (over 35s), with a greater number of registered participants in the ACT than any all other forms of football put together (rugby league, rugby union or AFL) with:

- Approximately 13,000 registered juniors
  (more than the other three codes of football combined)
- Approximately 4,000 senior men
- Approximately 1,200 senior women
- Approximately 3,000 in unregistered competitions

There are almost 50,000 people in the ACT directly involved in football. This in addition to those fans and supporters of the game with no direct participatory involvement. Canberra Football is also extremely well represented on the national scene through both the A-League and national teams (men's and women's, senior and junior).

The consortium has begun selling foundation membership packages in Canberra and is committed to reaching 5000 foundation members.

So come on Canberra football fans around the World. Let's do our bit for our Australian friends. Let's make history today.
